Information Collection

Information you provide to us

While using our Site we may ask you to voluntarily provide us with certain personally identifiable information that can be used to contact or identify you; for instance, when you complete an enquiry form on the website. Personally identifiable information may include, but is not limited to your name, address, email address, telephone number ("Personal Information").

Telephone Measurement

This data is only recorded when you voluntarily choose to call the telephone number listed on our Site. The data that we record is the time, date, duration of the phone call and the telephone number that called our business. The actual phone call conversation is not recorded. The data recorded is logged within a password protected area that also includes an SSL Certificate (Secure Sockets Layer).

Information our Site collects automatically

Log Data and Google Analytics

Like many site operators, we collect information that your browser sends whenever you visit our Site ("Log Data"). We use third-party services such as Google Analytics and AW Stats, to collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns.

This Log Data may include information such as your computer's Internet Protocol ("IP") address, browser type, browser version, the pages of our Site that you visit, the time and date of your visit, the time spent on those pages and other statistics.

Other than the above, at this time, we do not attempt to identify visitors to our Site or contact them using this data. We have no plans to do so in the foreseeable future. You will be kept informed of any change to this situation.

User and Event Data Retention within Google Analytics

Google Analytics will retain data for a given timescale before automatically deleting it. These timescales can vary between 14 months, 26 months, 38 months, 50 months or can be set to never automatically expire. The data retention period is automatically set as 26 months, unless otherwise specified.

When data reaches the end of the retention period specified, it is deleted automatically on a monthly basis. We may or may not set retention periods so that they can be reset on new activity. This means that the data retention period would be reset from the date of re-entry as a User to the Site. If you, as the User, do not initiate a new session before the retention period expires, then your data will be deleted.
